From my hole in the wall...
By Chucky Church Mouse

You may remember last week I said that there were some human-types working on the playground out at lake Buckets (next to the Office Building)...I realized this week that there were a few that I missed...I just realized that it was Dakota May who almost stepped on me while they were putting together the equipment. All I could see was the foot coming, so it took me a while to figure out who it was. I also had another close call...I was on the springs of one of those springy thingies that kids sit on and “spring”...(am I technical or what?)...anyway... where was I?...oh, yes...Skyler Lindsey sat on it and started springing. I got dizzy and fell off just before I was to become a Church Mouse pancake...I am glad you guys were helping, but PLEASE watch out for us poor little church mice who may be playing on the playground, too. I think that there were others working, but my little eyes are not what they used to be. I think I saw Ha-leigh Reel, but I’m not sure. I have spent so much time indoors due to the rain, I have to squint to see outdoors. But I still thank God for the rain! There would be no Lake Buckets if it hadn’t been for the rain!

Speaking of almost getting flattened, Bob Quisenberry and his sidekick (Walt Washburn) almost did me in this past week. I was checking out how the facelift in the ladies’ restroom was coming, when I felt my feet sinking into something like wax...then I looked up and they were about to set a toilet fixture (commode) right on top of me. I managed to slip out of the wax just in time! And, as if that were not enough, when I lay down for my afternoon mouse nap, I was sleeping in the corner next to the new vanity when I felt something cold and wet on my tail...Doke Williams, the painter for the project, had painted right over my tail...Now I am going to have a tan tail for at least a month or two! I am going to have to be more careful...or be a little less snoopy! In spite of it all, the restroom looks mouse-tastic!

Don’t forget the 3-4 grade Sunday School class’ bake sale today. The kids came up with the idea that they wanted to buy some new Bibles for the Sanctuary, and this is one of the ways that they wanted to earn the money. Maybe there will be something someone could buy and bring to the fellowship tonight. I hope to see you tonight!

I’ll see you next week...stay warm...Hey! Bring someone with you.

Chucky Church Mouse
